What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall. It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect. Nowadays, we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Water. They are small chocolate-coated tablets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining healthy vigor and health. Sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Water is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidotes for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results attained from Stuart's Calcium Water. In patients suffering from both and pimples and even deep-seated, carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, and the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Water is a proprietary article and sold by druggists and for that reason looked upon by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin diseases as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Calcium Water a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

ORIGIN OF NAMES IN WESTMORELAND

Much Interest Attaches to the Local Nomenclature.

PERPETUATE FAMILY TITLES

Nearly All the Creeks Entering the Potomac Have Historic Names.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HEATHSVILLE, VA., March 18.—The salt water creeks in Westmoreland county, which are inlets from the Potomac, with their smaller tributaries perpetuate in their names as a rule the title of some family who first located on them at the settlement of the country.
Rozier's Creek, in the vicinity of Colonial Beach, derived its name from John Rozier, who married a daughter of Anthony Bridges, and died in 1705. His sons, John and Bridges, died before he did. He left a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Thomas Leftwich.
Monroe's Creek, also, near Colonial Beach, was called for Captain Andrew Monroe, who died at his seat near it, in 1688, leaving three sons and two daughters. He was the grandfather of Spencer Monroe, whose son, James, was President of the United States.
Bridges Creek, on which the Washington burial ground is situated, took its name from its owner, Anthony Bridges, an early settler, and the first clerk of the county.
Pope's Creek, made familiar by having on its shore the birthplace of Washington, was called so after the first and second Nathaniel Pope, who was father and brother, respectively, to Anne, the grandmother of General Washington.
Mittox Creek, corrupted to abbreviated form of Appomattox, the Indian name by which the stream was at first called. Campbellton, the residence of Colonel Robert J. Washington, perpetuates the name of its founders Archibald Campbell, who came from Scotland, which was attacked by James Monroe, John Marshall and other eminent men of the Revolutionary era. Archibald Campbell was a near kinsman of the Scottish poet, Thomas Campbell.
Stratford, the well known home of the Lee family, was named after the English home of Richard Lee, the emigrant, the latter place of this name having been devised by him to his wife, Anna, in his will of 1664.
Hollis' Marsh, not far from Stratford, preserves the name of its earliest English owner, Major John Hollis, who was one of the Maryland adventurers and afterwards prominent in the settlement of Westmoreland.
Nominl Creek, got its name from the Indian name O-nom-ni-ent, by which it was known, but by which method of corruption it is not easy to say.
Pierce's Creek, owes its name to Captain William Pierce, who lived near it, and reared a family there.
The Lee family, members of the Colonial Council of the same name.
Vaughan's Creek and Vaughan's Point commemorate a John Vaughan, whose name appears quite often in the early records of Westmoreland.
Buckner's Creek derived its name from the Buckner family, who dwelt for a century near it, and of whom General Simon Bolivar Buckner, of Kentucky, is a distinguished descendant.
Peckstone, the estate occupied for a century by the Tuberville's and Taliaferros, derived its title from an Indian king, who governed "Machodoc" tribe in the neighborhood of the settlement.
Jackson's Creek, once quite noted for the excellence of its oysters, derived its name from Richard Jackson, who kept a store near it. He married one of the numerous daughters of Richard Boone, among his children, two sons, Samuel and Thomas. His grandson, Samuel, the third of the name, married the half sister of Mrs. Washington, mother of General Washington. Mrs. Washington, Boone's home with her in-law, Kinsale, on Yocomoco Creek, was so named by an act of the Assembly of October, 1705. The act declared, with respect to that portion of Westmoreland county bordering on the Potomac, that county bordering on the Potomac, and merchandise, which shall be imported by waters, shall be landed at Yocomoco upon the land of Richard Tidwell, and further, that "the port or wharf" shall be called Kingsale, and to have Tuesday and Saturday in each week for market days, and the 1st of October and four following days, exclusive of Sundays, annually their fair."
